Ezekiel Mott

R.7463

The data which follow are obtained from the papers on file in Revolutionary War pension claim, R.7463, based upon the military service in that war of Ezekiel Mott.

The date and place of birth and the names of the parents of Ezekiel Mott are not shown.

Ezekiel Mott was in the battle of Trenton, details of this service not given; he enlisted in the state of New York, in June, 1777, served as a private in Captain Evans' (evidently meant for Captain Daniel Niven's) Company, Colonel Malcolm's Continental Regiment, was transferred to Colonel Spencer's Regiment and was discharged in June 1780, at Pompton, New Jersey. He was in the battle of Newton under General Sullivan and in the battle of Springfield.

He was allowed pension on his application executed April 22, 1818, at which time he was aged eighty-one years and resided in Deerfield Township, Portage County, Ohio.

In 1819, son Ezekiel Mott, Junior, made affidavit in Portage County, Ohio, that he was with his father in the army first at Wyoming, at which place his father "left all of his family and went on an expedition to the northward. On his return home, my mother having died in his absence, he took me with his father in the army for at least one year at which time he was aged seven or nine years, that there were five children and that his father received his discharge because of the "largeness of his family." He did not give the names of the other children.

In 1820, the soldier stated that his family then residing with him consisted of his wife, only, her name Jane, aged sixty years. He did not give the date and place of their marriage or her maiden name. Jane Mott died November 16, 1838, in Medina County, Ohio. It was stated that they were married in the state of New Jersey during the Revolution.

Ezekiel Mott the soldier died in Portage County, Ohio, about 1823.

Ezekiel and Jane Mott had a family of children. In 1854, one Elijah Mott made affidavit in Stark County, Ohio, that he was a grandson of Ezekiel and Jane Mott. In same year, one Eunice Carter made affidavit in Stark County, Ohio, that she was the daughter of Elijah Mott, son of the soldier Ezekiel and his wife Jane. No other names of children are given.

In 1854, one George Carter made affidavit in Stark County, Ohio; no relationship to Eunice Carter, granddaughter of the soldier was stated.
